The Italian community is comprised of three main groups of people, the Sicilians, the Neapolitans and the Romanians, with the one million or so identified ethnic Italians being chiefly the first two groups. Of these groups, the Sicilians are the by far largest in population and number, comprising approximately two-fifths of the community. In addition to the Sicilians, there is also a small and shrinking number of remaining Pontics (ethnic inhabitants of the Black Sea coast). Many other Italians are of a mixed Sicilian-Italian, [url= tips[/url] CÉMБ: CÉMСÉM: CÉM
